Key Insights — 66,691 help desk tickets, Apr 2007 – Mar 2023

• Almost everything closes. 66,058 of 66,691 tickets (99.05%) are Completed; only 632 remain Active and just 1 was Cancelled. The 15 raw status values in the source group cleanly into those three buckets.

• Typical resolution is 35 days — the average lies. Median resolution time is 35 days, but the mean is 770 days, pulled up by a long tail of very old tickets. The median is the honest benchmark for this data.

• The longest delays have no owner. 31,047 tickets (46.5%) have no assignee recorded. Resolved tickets with no assignee sat a median of 1,654 days — by far the slowest group in the data. Assignment gaps, not individual speed, are where the extreme waits concentrate.

• Priority data only describes half the tickets. Priority is "unknown" on 33,965 tickets (50.9%), so any priority-based KPI covers barely half the workload and should be read with that caveat.

• A small review list, not a pattern. Of 134 assignees with 30+ resolved tickets, only 5 have a median resolution time above 1.5× the overall median (>52.5 days) — a short, specific list for review rather than a team-wide problem.

• Fast closes are common too. 6,392 resolved tickets (9.7%) closed the same day they were created.

Note: resolution dates effectively cover Aug 2015 – Mar 2023 (plus one stray 2013 row); ticket creation spans the full Apr 2007 – Mar 2023 range
